Mr sinna mani , a British journalist holidaying in Cairo speaking to a group of student journalists in Cairo said: that “ he was not in the habit of freely giving his opinion to journalists particularly on weighty matters like US foreign policy” . However ,he was prepared to make an exception in the case of President Obama’s recent speech on the Middle East. As one of the millions who worked day and night to secure his election to the most powerful position in the world he feels able to comment,

- 1- Obama’s speech represents a high point in his Presidency;
- 2- He speaks common sense with which vast majority of forward thinking People can agree;
- 3- If he could act on the policies he outlined it would represent a quantum leap for American foreign policy;
- 4- He concluded by saying that the ‘suicidal tendencies’ within the Zionist movement both in Israel and USA would do everything to frustrate his efforts.
